SOCIAL GOSSIP.

Persons Who Protest Against Society as it Exists Expending Their Strength for Nothing.

Approach of Lent Warning the Votaries of Fashion Their Reign is Drawing to a Close.

The Past Week a Dull one Socially, But Fow Society Events of Importance Taking Place.

Only a few weeks more before the devobes of fashion will try and atone for the venial sins they have committed during the winter. Not many fair penitents will clothe themselves in sack cloth and ashes, abstain from eating chocolate creams, or refuse butter on their buckwheat cakes, but as it is fashionable to practice self denial in some way, the fair may resolve not to eat any ice cream during the lenten season, as that delicacy is not considered of ripe until the first warm day in June. From that time on to chilly weather, the now eschewed ice, which scientists claim carries a poison the most learned toxicologists have been unable to provide an antidote for, will be resolved with graceful feminine abandon.

The latest fad among muscular girls is fencing, and a professor of the art has a class of six young ladies who are acquiring a suppleness of figure, gracefulness of moa suppleness of figure, gracefulness of mo-tion and strength of wrist which cannot be acquired by the best system of calisthenics. Some young ladies who apply to the pro-fessor refuse to don the short skirted cos-tumes he insists upon his pupils wearing, and will not renounce their stays, so he po-litely informs them to seek another inlitely informs them to seek another in-structor. A more healthful exercise than fencing has not been invented, and its usefencing has not been invented, and its use-fulness to the sex may become apparent after awhile. For instance a young man who wishes to trifle with a girl's affections will hesitate if he realizes that he is liable to be called out and pinked by the girl he has held in loving embrace. But the exer-cises are not open to inspection by man.

Ever and anon some one will score so-ciety as it exists and some will be found to defend. It is the same thing over again. As long as there is a struggle for wealth, as As long as there is a saruggle for wealth, as long as silly persons acknowledge that wealth gives social supremacy, as long as there are fawners, flatterers, lickspittles and cravens, so long will there be grounds for complaint by persons who may and may not have been snubbed by allowing themselves to follow their nasal appendages, thrust somewhere not wanted. Society, if such a thing can be said to exist, is the best indge of who it wants to brush against it.

such a thing can be said to exist, is the best judge of who it wants to brush against it. Sets are now really a necessity in every well regulated community and if the set doesn't want this or that one in its revels, then this or that one shouldn't try to intrude.

A select circle which has among its members none but blue bloods does not wish to have the strain impaired by crossing it with scrub stock. Of course some may claim that a certain family is not pedigreed and that true hearts are superior to Norman blood. They may claim that education and refinement have some claims to recognition, but how silly claimants are. It is true that it might be possible to vote a person a thoroughbred after a test, but does one imagine for an instant that a set is going to give a person a chance to show does one imagine for an instant that a set is going to give a person a chance to show his or her mentality—or what is a much better passport, ability as a dancer. In the language of the philososher, "perish the thought!" The set is right. The man or woman is a fool. And yet he or she could be wise by simply attending to his or her own business and letting the wide world wag as it will.

It may be as some assert that there are those within the sanctuary of society, so-called, who should not be there. Well, let them stay. They may become polished by attrition with brighter minds and become the ornaments hereafter they imsgined themselves to be. A boor, even one of the feminine persuasion, can become conversant with the usages of good society; at least sufficiently so to keep her from running her knife down her throat at a dinner party and doing other things as offensive, but unfortunately she remains what she is: It may be as some assert that there are but unfortunately she remains what she is But then a coat of varnish is more pleasant to the eye than a rough surface.

Then, too, it is claimed that some of the select are in the habit of snubbing inferiors who unfortunately are thrown in contact with them. Just as if that wasn't a heaven-born privilege. It does them good and cannot in any wise injure the inferior. Everyone has the privilege of pleasing himself. If a woman finds delight in sitning down upon an obtrusive sister: if a ting down upon an obtrusive sister; if a man teaches another by his air to respect his station, who has a right to interfere? John the Baptist preached in the wilder ness a good many years ago. He prepared the way for one who came to call sinners to repentance. Since the days of the apostles the world has been filled with earnest Chrisworld has been filled with earnest Christians, who have pointed the way to that city of repose where all are equal before Him and in His eyes. They have made life pleasant for those that hope to find the highest type of society in the beyond. The entree to that society is a pure heart and a clean record. The entree to our society requires whatever the circle elect. If the latter is worth striving for strive for it. latter is worth striving for, strive for it. No sensible person envies any set, circle or individual. Society is as it is, and none but fools attempt reforms, however badly

A CHARMING MUSICALE. A CHARMING MUSICALE.

The musicale Thursday evening at the hall in the Granite block was one of the most successful of the efforts at entertainment by the Y. M. C. A. The participants were all artists of recognized merit, the talent wholly local. Mrs. Henry W. Foote, Mrs. F. D. Kelsey, Mrs. R. S. Hill, Messrs. A. J. Niebels. Edward Bellis, "Frank Sharpe and Burgess gave instrumental and v. cal selections in an exceptionally fine v. cal selections in an exceptionally fine namer, while Miss Rosenfeld and Master Louis Klein contributed the recitative por-tion of the programme. The local talent certainly retrieved its reputation and add-ed other laurels to the crown.

A NEW LITERARY SOCIETY.

A new literary society, called the "Star," connected with the Helena Business Col-lege, blds fair to flourish. The first meeting was held Tuesday evening at the col-lege, well attended by those interested in the progress of the students. The exerthe progress of the students. The exercises were readings, recitations, vocal and instrumental music and the reading of the society's Paper, the Star, by its editress, quite replete with wit and pleasing fancy. The society give another entertainment on February 26, and every fortnight after unscention.

LAST DANCE OF THE CLUB.

There is general regret among the dancing circle of Helena people that Friday evening was the last of the Pio eer receptions. Every one who found it possible attended the last festivity of this club which has so fine a reputation for hospitality. The Assembly hall, as usual, was the place where the dance was held. Prof. Rossner's orchestra was in attendance and the last opportunity to dance at the Pioneers' was fully improved. Among the members of the club and their guests were Messrs. and Mesdames Humbert, Joe Davis, Chas. Lehman, McComas, Sligh, Zimmerman, Harris,

W. C. Child. Webb, Kleinschmidt, Fuller, Will Edgar, Porter, Misses Davenport, King, Silgh, Kinna, Crounse, Woodman, Hedges, Cuthbert, Israel, Young, Messrs, H. Barbour, C. M. Shaw, H. C. A THIMBLE PARTY. Mrs. A. M. Holter entertained about seventy-five ladies at her residence on seventy-five ladies at her residence on Benton avenue, Thursday afternoon. This was the second of the "thimble parties" being given by Mrs. Holter. All the ladies brought their sewing or embroidery, and the time was pleasantly passed in social conversation. Mrs. Holter received alone. Elaborate refreshments were served.

SONS OF VETERANS.

U. S. Grant Camp, Sons of Veterans, elebrated the anniversary of the birth of celebrated the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln with appropriate exer-cises in the basement of the M. E. Church South, Tuesday evening. Appropriate decorations were displayed about the hall, decorations were displayed about the hall, a stack of arms in the center of the floor, ornamented with the national colors, attracting particular attention. George O. Freeman delivered a well received address of welcome. Col A. C. Botkin gave an oration in his much appreciated, eloquent vein. The rest of the evening was passed in listening to Miss Shed's fine guitar playing, Miss Smith's and little Miss Priest's vocal selections. Comrade Dwyer's Irish recitation, Mr. Allen's eloquent address and in enjoying the elegant collation dress and in enjoying the elegant collation served by the ladies of the Relief Corps. CRESCENT CLUB MEMBERS.

CRESCENT CLUB MEMBERS.

The gatherings of the members of the Crescent club for practice of dancing are now held weekly, each one proving merrier and a source of greater pleasure than the preceding ones. The last one was held Wednesday eveling at the residence of Z. T. Burton. There were present Messrs. and Mmes. Z. T. Burton, L. N. Smith, Louis Esdadler, Leslie Sulgrove, J. J. Hindson; W. W. Brown, N. Fretz, William Harting; Misses Elia Knowles, Wilda and Clara Hannell, Maude Smith, Glennie Burton and little Agnes Sulgrove; Messrs. R. M. Calkins, C. G. Evans, H. B. Lyman, Otto Shinneman, Becker and Slighter. The next meeting will be on Monday evening instead of Tuesday as at first arranged, at the residence of Louis Stadler.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE AT MISSOULA.

PROGRESSIVE EUCHRE AT MISSOULA.

Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Buckley gave a pleasant progressive euchre party Tuesday evning last. The six prizes given. Chinese curios, were decidedly pretty. The parlors were made bright by an artistic arrangement of light tinted draperies, bric abrac, scores of candles and cut flowers, hyacinths and carnations predominating. The collation at midnight was delicious and the service excellent. Those present were: Col. and Mrs. Andrews, Major and Mrs. DeWitt, Capt. and Mrs. Sanborn, Capt. and Mrs. Wilson, Lieut. and Mrs. Green, Lieut. and Mrs. Loftenugh, Lieut. and Mrs. French. Lieuts. A letter describes a dinner, which some personal friends attended, in another city. It was a tulip luncheon; the souvenirs were tulips painted on white silk bolting cloth set on white moire ribbon, which, uncloth set on white moire ribbon, which, unfolding, disclosed quotations from famous authors, in the writing of the hostess on finest paper, quotations like these, for example: "A thought once awakened never slumbers," and the words of George Eilot, "What do we live for, if it is not to make life less difficult to each other?" Then the design, in ice cream, at this luncheon was original, a big white swan, wings very faintly tinged with most delicate gray, surrounded by a large family of young ones. It seemed as unique as lovely.

Happy the man that, when his day is done,
Lies down to sleep with nothing of regret;
The battle he has fought may not be won,
The fame he sught be just as fleeting yet,
Folding at last his hands upon his breast,
Happy is he, it, hoary and forspent,
He sincs into the last eternal rest,
Breathing these only words: "I am content."

But happier he, that, while his blood is warm, sees hopes and friendships dead about him lie, Bares his brave breast to envy's liter storm, Nor shuns the poison barbs of calumny; And 'micst it all, stands sturdy and elate Girt only in the armor God hath meast For him who 'neath the buffelings of fate Can say to God and man; "I am content."

"I have used St. Patrick's Pills," says Mr. J. Reynolds, of Mayfield, Ky., "and pronounce them superior to any I have ever before used. I do not hesitate to rec-ommend them, knowing them to be reliable." They are thorough, yet gentle in their action and leave the system in splendid condition. Wonderful Stories About Some Animals in the North Country.

River Press: Mr. N. S. Thomas, a prom nent stockman and rancher on the reservation, arrived in the city last evening-Mr. Thomas reports stock in fine condition in his section, and although the wolves are quite numerous the cattle, owing to their running and fighting qualities, are able to stand off the bloodthirsty brutes. He says that quite a number of his cattle have become expert as wolf fighters, using their heels as well as their horns in combats the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever with the "varmints." Mr. Thomas has put discovered." Peculiar in its "good name with the "varmints." Mr. Thomas has put long corked shoes on the hind feet of several of his best fighters with the most eneral of his best fighters with the most en-couraging results. His plan is to tie a piece of fresh meat to the tail of each every morning and then turn them all loose. The animals take to the range and the wolves go for the meat. As soon as one gets within reach the steer lets fly his heels and the wolf falls dead with a crushed skull. Mr. Thomas, who is a de-vout church member, thinks that he will secure enough hides during the next six months to erect a church building in his neighborhood, which he says is very much neighborhood, which he says is very much

HELENA, Oct. 7, 1887. HELENA, Oct. 7, 1887.

I was suffering from an unusually bad cough, my lungs were sore and congested, and I consulted one of the best physicians in Helena, whose prescriptions failed to relieve me. I became alarmed, and at the suggestion of a friend purchased a bottle of Acker's English Remedy for coughs, and after taking it according to directions was completely cured. I therefore cheerfully recommend it.
